

INSTITUTE FOR LEADERSHIP IN EDUCATION DEVELOPMENT (I-LED)

Supporting Survivor Serving Organizations to Elevate Education & Training Experiences

WHAT IS I-LED?

I-LED provides national training and technical assistance to Office on Violence Against Women (OVW) grantees engaged in education and training to address all forms of domestic and sexual violence. Our workshops and resources support a multidisciplinary audience, including advocates, attorneys, social workers, judges, other T/TA providers, and many others dedicated to ending domestic and sexual violence.

WHAT WE OFFER

I-LED equips organizations serving survivors with the tools and skills to deliver effective, learner-centered education. Our offerings are designed to be accessible, community responsive, and rooted in adult learning principles. We help grantees:

- Design interactive and engaging training programs
- Conduct needs assessments
- Strengthen facilitation skills for impactful learning experiences
- Navigate facilitation challenges with confidence
- Enhance accessibility for all learners
- Create responsive curriculum and learning environments
- Develop effective meeting facilitation skills, including agenda development and decision-making processes
- Techniques to sustain engagement in both virtual and in-person settings

PRINCIPLES OF ADULT LEARNING & FACILITATION SKILLS

Effective adult education engages learners in three key ways:

- Connecting with Content: I-LED promotes interactive learning that allows participants to apply new concepts directly to their work.
- Engaging with Facilitators: Skilled facilitation enhances comprehension, fosters discussion, and creates a supportive learning environment.
- Peer-to-Peer Learning: Adults learn best from sharing experiences. I-LED encourages collaborative learning through discussion, role-playing, and real-world application.
